

Are you passionate about 'print' and automation?
Do you have strong analytical skills, while being truly customer-driven?
Feel like working in a small, yet rapidly growing company, with customers all over Europe?

If so, you might be the motivated Junior Print Consultant that InDeap is looking for to strengthen its team.

Your role?

You will help our customers adapt to today's constantly changing media and information landscape, by finding solutions to automate their print workflows and by exploring new business opportunities within digital and print. The solutions you help develop will be built around leading Product Information Management and Catalogue platforms, such as inRiver PIM and Easy Catalogue, and layout/DTP tools like InDesign.

Your key responsibilities?

- Analyse our clients' specific needs and requirements and translate these to automated solutions
- Connect inDesign to database publishing solutions
- Develop inDesign scripts
- Facilitate workshops with an international audience

What do we expect from you?

Qualifications

- Bachelor or master's degree, preferably in IT
- Proficient in inDesign and Adobe Suite
- Familiar with production processes and production workflow

Competencies

- Strong analytical skills and an eye for detail and quality
- Customer-focused: you will go out of your way to support our customers
- You think in solutions, not in problems
- You are enthusiastic, creative and an excellent communicator
- You are able to work independently and love to work in a small team
- Flexible about travelling abroad for a few days per month
- Fluent in English

Plusses include

- Programming skills and willing to learn C#
- You have a few years' experience in B2B/B2C processes

What do we offer?

- A challenging, innovative and flexible work environment
- An attractive and competitive salary with fringe benefits
- A dynamic work atmosphere with a focus on learning and personal development
